

Call for Abstracts

Science and practice in the field of insurance medicine – present and future challenges in the European and Swiss context

The Scientific Committee of the EUMASS Congress 2020 is pleased to invite delegates from clinical practice, research and education, from leadership and management, to submit their abstract for oral or poster presentation, topical seminars and mini symposia. The EUMASS Congress, which is one of the major international research and learning events in insurance medicine in Europe, is hosted by the European Union for Medicine in Assurance and Social Security and co-organised by Swiss Insurance Medicine SIM, the AEH, Cochrane Insurance Medicine and the University Hospital Basel.

The motto “Science and practice in the field of insurance medicine – present and future challenges in the European and Swiss context” will be discussed with national and international experts, presenting recent developments and up-to-date research findings from international angles, complemented by contributions from the community. Please feel invited to contribute by submitting one or more abstracts to the following main themes in the field of insurance medicine, social insurance and health care:

- Work capacity evaluation & management
- Rehabilitation & return-to-work
- Sick leave
- Training in insurance medicine
- Interaction between health care and social care
- Ethics in insurance medicine
- Demographic and social changes
- Information technology in IM
- New approaches on work and health

There will be keynote events, plenary sessions and creative meeting spaces. However, the heart of this three-day congress will be interactive sessions which offer key learning experiences for participating delegates through sharing knowledge, experience from practice and novel ideas.

The online abstract submission system is open from now on until 1 December 2019.

All abstract submissions must be made electronically through www.eumass-2020.eu/abstract-submission

Further information and updates on the conference programme will be posted on the conference website at www.eumass-2020.eu

The Organizing Committee

